  - Direct/Indirect
  - Immediate/Delayed
  - Explicit/Inferred
- Operational
- Financial
5. Case Study– Anvil Mining

- Canadian mining company
- Mine in Katanga, Democratic Republic of Congo
- Mine attacked by rebels, 2004
- Congolese Army uses Anvil Mining vehicles and drivers to respond to rebellion, 2004
- Army commits human rights abuses, 2004
- Anvil faces criminal investigation in DRC and Australia, 2005–2007
- Anvil faces civil litigation in Canada, 2010–2012
- Other examples include Shell in Nigeria, Monterrico Metals in Peru, Hudbay Minerals in Guatemala, Barrick Gold in Tanzania and Papua New Guinea, Talisman Energy in Sudan...
6. Solutions– Due Diligence

- Previous allegations of human rights abuses/criminality
- Human resources and recruitment procedures
- SOPs
- Licences and sourcing of weapons
- Contractual boundaries– PSC contract that specifies compliance with best practices (ICoC, PSC.1, etc.)
7. Solutions – Oversight

- Local engagement/community relations
- Constant evaluation and progress
- Pre contract due diligence
- Pre contract assistance in ensuring salient points covered
- Post incident investigations
8. Solutions– Investigation

- Investigating authority often discredited
- Important to understand why incidents occurred
- Important to communicate what actually occurred to stakeholders
- Credibility of investigators is key
9. Conclusion

- Security forces protect from threats, but also generate them
- Proactive approach to security management is key
- Where incidents occur, investigate
- International best practice is key, complying with local law alone is insufficient
- Variety of tools and advisory services available

Security & Human Rights

Security is Human Rights

• Right to life, liberty and security of person

• Right to own property alone as well as in association with others
The Environment

- Voluntary Principles on Security & Human Rights – 2000
- Montreux Document – 2008
- International Code of Conduct for Private Security Providers (ICoC) – 2010
- ICoC Association – 2012
- UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights - 2011
Common Themes

• Respect human rights
  • documents specify prevalent rights specific to security
  • all focus on Rules on the Use of Force (RUF)

• Selection and vetting of sub-contractors

• Selection and vetting of security personnel

• Training of security personnel

• Grievance procedures – allegations related to human rights
Note on Terminology:

• Assess actual and potential adverse human rights impacts

• Potential adverse human rights impacts = RISK

• Actual adverse human rights impacts = Realisation of risk - IMPACT

• Business Risk Assessment – impact is known/ felt

• Human rights risk assessment – impact invisible

• Human rights impact assessment – make impacts visible

What can companies do?

1. Does your company contract directly with a Private Security Company?
   - Understand the human rights context
   - Due diligence on sub-contracted PSCs
   - Require membership of ICoC Association
   - Require PSC.1 (ISO) standard
   - Become an Observer of the ICoC Association

   Additionally, dependant on size/resources
   - Undertake HR risk assessment to inform the PSC contract

   Establish requirements and maintain oversight of PSCs:
   - Selection and vetting of personnel
   - RUF – relevant to legal context and HR context
   - Initial and recurrent training of personnel
   - Grievance mechanism – internal and external – effective and appropriate
   - Effective remedy – joint process for remedy

   Undertake a HR impact assessment during the life of the contract
What can companies do?

2. Does your company directly employ personnel to provide security at your sites or installations?

Organic security – external standards and mechanisms are often not an option

INTEGRATE security and human rights within existing Corporate
- Business Ethics,
- Sustainability
- Community relations
- Human Rights policies
- AND processes

CHALLENGES
- Cultural differences between sustainability, community relations and the security functions
- End state: ‘Security is human rights’
What can companies do?

HR RISK ASSESSMENT
• Understand the human rights context
• Understand how the security provision will interact with that context
• Identify rights holders – internal and external

HR RISK MANAGEMENT
• Communicate with rights holders
• Establish measures to mitigate the risks to human rights
• Establish reporting to monitor the application of the mitigation
• Establish grievance mechanisms to access data on effectiveness of mitigation measures

HR IMPACT ASSESSMENT
• Impacts on rights holders – full rights spectrum
• Continual improvement
• Fluid never fixed – start the process again
3. Is your company required to coordinate with, or provide support to, public security providers, e.g. police or military, in order to ensure security at your company’s sites or installations?

Experience and lessons of VP companies – extractive companies

Complicity: non-legal

• Leverage – ability to prevent or mitigate the adverse impact
• How crucial the relationship – imposed relationship
• Severity of the adverse human rights impact
What can companies do?

UNDERSTAND THE HUMAN RIGHTS CONTEXT - MONITOR
- Rights impacted
- Rights holder/ communities impacted/ targeted
- Severity of impact

INCREASE LEVERAGE
National Level
- Agreement on role of public security at operational sites
- National level coordination & command of public security
- Group with other companies – engage Embassies
- Support to CSOs focused on SSR

Operational level
- Relationships – structured, recorded & professional
- Training – human rights training of public security
- Support – must be contingent upon human rights impacts
- Monitoring – structured, recorded & joint
- Grievance mechanisms - joint
- Joint remediation processes
Specific Questions

• Effectiveness of VPs as key control mechanism?

• Every country has its own laws and legal regulations on Security and Human Rights, how could we quickly gather them for reference?

• Challenges in frisking/physical searching of employees.

• Keen to understand the guidance being provided?

• Security contractors often known for working 12-hour shifts in many countries, how to approach?

6 Human Rights

6.1 Members shall respect Human Rights and observe the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights in ways appropriate to their size and circumstances, including as a minimum:
   a. A policy commitment to respect Human Rights;
   b. A Human Rights due diligence process that seeks to identify, prevent, mitigate and account for how they address their impacts on Human Rights;
   c. Where Members identify that they have caused or contributed to adverse Human Rights impacts, they shall provide for or cooperate in legitimate processes to enable the remediation of those impacts.

6.2 Members, if operating in, or sourcing Diamonds, Gold or Platinum Group Metals directly from, a Conflict-Affected Area, shall use the Human Rights due diligence process to assess the heightened Risks of adverse Human Rights impacts.

II Security

11.1 Members shall assess security Risks and establish measures that protect against product theft, damage or substitution of products within the premises and during shipments. Product security measures shall prioritise the protection of Employees, Contractors, Visitors and personnel employed by relevant Business Partners.

11.2 Members shall ensure that all security personnel respect the Human Rights and dignity of all people and use force only when strictly necessary and the minimum proportionate to the threat.

11.3 Members with Mining Facilities shall ensure that security personnel receive training on and operate in accordance with the Voluntary Principles on Security and Human Rights (2000). The human rights of any Artisanal and Small-Scale Mining (ASM) should be explicitly addressed in training of private security personnel.

11.4 Members whose business is to provide private security services to the Jewellery supply chain shall be a signatory to the International Code of Conduct for Private Security Service Providers (ICoC).
(COP 6) HUMAN RIGHTS

A Definitions and applicability

Human rights are universal rights and freedoms regarded as belonging to all people without discrimination based on internationally recognised standards. At a minimum, the RJC understands human rights to mean those rights articulated in the International Bill of Human Rights, the ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work and Applicable Law.

Source:
- United Nations Human Rights – What are Human Rights?

The Human Rights section of the COP is applicable to all Members.

B Issue background

Human rights are relevant to all businesses, regardless of size, sector or country of operation. The kinds of rights which are regarded as human rights include:

- Social, cultural and economic rights – such as the right to participate in cultural activities, the right to food, the right to clean drinking water and sanitation, and the right to education;
- Labour rights – such as the right to freedom of association and effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining, and freedom from forced labor, child labour and discrimination;
- Civil and political rights – such as the right to life and liberty, freedom of expression, and equality before the law.

While some of these human rights might sound abstract from a business perspective, they are often the underlying rationale for a company’s policies and procedures. For example, a company’s health and safety procedures may not use ‘human rights’ language, but in effect respects employees’ right to life, the right to just and favourable conditions of work and the right to health. A company policy on child labour in effect respects the right to protection of the child and the right to education.

SMALL BUSINESS

Even small businesses have a responsibility to respect human rights. However the way small businesses approach this responsibility will vary according to their size, sector, operational context and structure, as well as the risks of creating adverse human rights impacts. Smaller enterprises often have more informal processes and management structures than larger companies, so their policies and processes for respecting human rights can usually be more informal. But where smaller enterprises have severe human rights impacts, this will require corresponding measures irrespective of the size of the business.
